EXTRAORDINARY CASE,-Mrs. Catharine Beach, widow of a respectable merchant of Bridgeport, possessed of about $7,000, about middle age, with two children respectably married, and two aged 8 and 10 respectively, and a woman of more than ordinary beauty and intelligence, fell in love with Mr. Francis, a colored barber of Bridgeport, smart, intelligent, and black as jet. She first set him up in business, in a fancy goods store, and in October they visited New York, and were privately married. They returned to Bridgeport, seeing each other but seldom, and keeping the marriage from the knowledge of her friends. Not long ago, the secret leaked out, and she acknowledged that she was his wife. The selectmen appointed a Mr. Hays con- the land permanently benefitted so that its preservator over her, and took her to the Retreat for the Insane in this city, by direction of her friends. Dr. Butler refused to receive her, as she was not legally committed .-She was taken back, and her friends joined in procuring certificates from four physicians she was insane, and yesterday she was brought here again. Friends of Francis, the negro, telegraphed to him in New York, where he has lately established himself, and this morning he met his wife and her conservator as they again took her to the Retreat. He had with him Julius L. Strong, esq., as his counsel. He claimed his wife. Dr. Butler said the certificates were all right, but if she acknowledged Francis to be her lawful husband, he (Dr. B.) had no authority to detain her. She declared that he was truly and legally her husband, and that she would stick to him through thick and thin. Mr. and Mrs. Francis accordingly stepped into the back in waiting, and rode to the United States Hotel, took dinner, and left on the steamboat City of Hartford, bound for New York, at 2 P. DEATH OF A CELEBRATED DOG .- On the morning of the 18th, ult., while the 1st battalion of Scots Fusilier Guards were returning to their barracks, accompanied as usual to its absolute purity. by their celebrated dog "Bob," he was unfortunately run over by a cart and killed .-"Bob" sailed in the Simoon with the regiment to Malta in 1854, and on the declarapresent with the regiment to which he was of the whiskeys in general use.

After the flank march, however, to Balaklava he again joined, after an absence of three days. He trenches, and at length was at the final capture of Sebastopol. "Bob" returned with his regiment at the close of the war, and marched into London at the head of his corps. "Bob" had been awarded a medal for his services, which he wore round his neck as a memento and decoration .- European

A CURIOUS SURGICAL CASE .- A rare instance of a perfect recovery from a desperate wound was brought a few days ago under the notice of the Academy of Medicine by to that body an American, M. Preterre, to whose mechanical skill the attainment of whose mechanical skill the attainment of a full result was due. At the battle of Magenta, a sergeant of the S5th of the Line was struck by a musket ball, which, after com- mers of Maryland and Virginia to their large and pletely shattering the lower jaw, came out behind from under the skull, close to the cervical vertebræ, which, had they been injured, would have rendered the case hopeless. It is hardly credible that so extensive an injury, inflicted in such an important region of the human frame, could have admitted of cure, and it reflects high credit on the army surgeons who attended him. To restore the powers of mastication by mechanical means, M. Preterre was called in, and succeeded in his task by an ingenious contri- Reaping and Mowing Machines, vance, which has been greatly admired by the first surgeons in Paris.

ALABAMA LEAP YEAR PARTY .- The young ladies of Blountsville, Ala., a few days since, gave the young gentlemen a leap year party. The local paper says:

They sent out invitations to the young gentlemen in due and ancient form, and, at a becoming hour, went by ones and twos, and squads, according to the exigencies of the case, and called upon their invited guests, and proposed their services to escort them to the designated place. Assembled, music soon began to resound through the hall, and the ladies sought on every hand partners for a dance, and floor. Soon all was going merry as marriage bells. After the attention of farmers to our large and well seawhile the young gents were invited to a sumptuous repast, and were escorted to the supper table by the ladies, who did the honors to perfection. Then there was dancing again, and chit chat, and a lively time generally, until wee sma' hours, when every lady offered her services to some one of their guests to escort them to their respective homes.

MONUMENTAL PILLARS .- "But," said I, do you really break these pillars purpose-ly?" 'Why, that all depends, you see, sir. ly?" 'Why, that all depends, you see, sir. When the father of a family is called away on a sudden, we break the column off short with a rough fracture; if it has been a lingering case, we chisel it down a little dumpy. That, for instance," said he, pointing to a very thick pillar, fractured as sharp and ragged as a piece of granite, "is for an awful sudden affliction-a case of apoplexy -a wife and seven small children." "But." I observe, "there are some tall and some short columns." "Well, you see," said he "that's all according to age. We break 'em off short for old' uns, and it stands to reason, when its a youngish one, we give him more shaft." "The candle of life is blown out early in some cases; in others it is burnt to the socket," I suggested. "Exactly, sir," said he, "now you have hit it." - Once a
